

A large grid of colored squares representing a world map where each country is colored according to its COVID-19 vaccination status. The colors used include shades of red, orange, yellow, green, blue, and purple, indicating different levels of vaccination or specific vaccination programs. The grid is organized by continent and covers the entire globe.